2014 Technical and Tasting Notes

2014 Winderlea Chardonnay

Brilliant, golden straw in color, the 2014 Winderlea Chardonnay shines with a complex blend of aromatics. Citrus pith and wet stone follow through to a palate that is marked by minerality, poached pear, crème brûlée, bright lemon and a creamy quality that reinforces subtle notes of brioche. Slightly tropical, the texture and structure of this wine leave a long, perfectly balanced finish

2014 Winderlea Legacy Chardonnay

Well, it's an interesting story. The Legacy Chardonnay is sourced from the first 2 blocks of fruit planted on the vineyard in 1974 and 1975. It was Chardonnay that was later grafted over to Pinot noir. Over the years due to imprecise pruning of those blocks, the original Draper selection of Chardonnay is still carried on over 100 vines. We decided to hand pick those vines and make a Chardonnay with them. We loved it, but sadly, are only able to make about 1 barrel a year. 2014 is its inaugural release. Enjoy this round, ripe apple and nutty expression of Chardonnay from Draper cuttings from the Eyrle vineyard.

2014 Winderlea Meredith Mitchell Pinot blanc

2014 is our inaugural release of Pinot blanc from our newest estate vineyard in the McMinnville AVA. The wine is aged and fermented in three different vessels: neutral oak, stainless steel and a traditional Italian clay amphora. Striking aromatics of freshly cut grass, honeydew melon and wet stone leap from the glass while the palate stays lithe and textured with generous minerality balancing out bright acidity and fresh fruit. Lime zest, pineapple and guava meets subtler flavors of fresh parsley and dried herbs.

Our newest release is sourced from the Chehalem Mountains and one of Adelsheim's most prized vineyards. In true Oregon spirit, we are now trading our Winderlea fruit for this section of high elevation, old vine, own-rooted Pommard on the Bryan Creek Vineyard.. Dark in both color and profile, we find notes of cedar and black tea come through in the aromatics, while raspberry and a subtle hint of sea salt becomes more prominent on the palate. Weighty in texture and structure, this wine begs for red, red meat.

White flowers, orange blossom and a mélange of mid summer fruits combine to produce heady, intoxicating aromatics. 2014 Winderlea Juliard Pinot noir

Our neighbor to the east, Juliard Vineyard's Pinot noir was first planted in 1987 and these old vines now produce an average of only about one ton of fruit per acre. Well balanced, with aromas of rose petal and lavender, the palate shows black cherry, cranberry and a bit more generous structure than we are used to seeing off of this site. Juliard distinguishes itself with delicate notes of citrus and orange blossom which add to its signature Dundee Hills characteristics. (2014 is our last vintage of Juliard as the vineyard was sold).

2014 Winderlea Maresh Vineyard Pinot noir

While generally approachable young, the 2014 Maresh shines with an overt friendliness and approachability we rarely see at such an early stage. The aromatics billow from the glass as notes of smoked cherry, rose and bergamot rush forward. The savory notes we expect take second stage here with fresh earth, mushroom and celery seed creating a tension that keeps the primary fruit and floral tones balanced. The palate has fine, firm tannins with fresh and lively acidity highlighted by dried blueberry and notes of almond and strawberry.

2014 Winderlea Meredith Mitchell Pinot noir

Winderlea established a long term lease on the Meredith Mitchell Vineyard in 2014 and took over the farming from owners Susan Meredith and Frank Mitchell. We established Biodynamic® farming practices in 2014 as well and the vineyard was certified in 2018. Abundant and mouth-watering aromatics are highlighted by violets, plum and blueberries which spill onto a bright and lush palate that shows both depth and elegance. The back of the palate shows sweet, late summer berries which are countered by dusty sagebrush and a hint of juniper.

2014 Winderlea Murto Vineyard Pinot noir

Always concentrated and often elusive, the 2014 Murto Vineyard Pinot noir offers up a darker fruit profile than its Dundee Hills neighbors. Notes of pomegranate, anise and cherry compote pave the way for subtler, secondary flavors of papaya and cranberry. Hovering perpetually between the sweet and the savory, candied blueberry comes through along with striking notes of cracked black pepper. Amidst strong tannins in the front of the palate is a lively backbone of acidity persisting through a long, sustained finish.

2014 Winderlea Shea Vineyard Pinot noir

One of Oregon and the Willamette Valley's most well-known sites, Shea Vineyard has earned its reputation for consistently high quality Pinot noir. Our 2014 bottling highlights all of the reasons this blockbuster vineyard has made such a name for itself. An opulence and decadence is evident even as the wine is being poured. Raspberries, bay leaf and aromas of fresh baked berry cobbler swirl together leaving your mouth watering before the first sip. The palate shows density and breadth with chewy tannins, bramble fruits and an abundance of baking spices that seem to develop and evolve into something warmer and richer. Allspice, cardamom and pink peppercorn round out what was one of our most popular wines from the vintage.

Combining darker notes of cedar, smoke, tobacco and earth with lithe, bright florals and hints of grapefruit, this compelling wine speaks volumes about what the 2014 vintage has to offer. The aromatics are abundant as are the layers of flavor and texture that greet you on the palate. Raspberry, red currant and plum persist throughout a delicate but lasting finish.
